THIS SUNROOM IS THE PERFECT SPACE for a morning coffee, or an afternoon nap on a dreary day. What used to be a bathroom is now a bright, airy extension of the dining room and a great transition space into the front garden. A light, fresh look was all that was needed for the sunroom to blend easily with the garden. This is in keeping with Monika Siebert Kakoschke's philosophy of blending the interior with the exterior of the home, making them both one.

The palette used for the sunroom is one for which Monika is well known – the play of light and dark. Starting with the floor, a beautiful array of leaves is surrounded by small pebbles and the walls are awash in a faint version of this floor pattern. The space is accentuated with unusual cushions and chairs, perfectly situated in this sunroom. A miniature atrium houses fresh wheat grass – perfect for the juicer. Lighting is important in all of Monika's interiors and although it will be mainly utilized in the evening, the Mademoiselle Filou light is a charming surprise to the first time visitor.

Known for her distinctive residential and commercial interiors, Monika Siebert Kakoschke's design approach is sought after by the single homeowner to families and corporations who desire a brilliant interior.
